DEMO-ShipWire

The idea of working anywhere doesn't just apply to nomadic executives. Now a new company called ShipWire has done the same thing for companies which want to have remote shipping and inventory management.

The beauty of ShipWire is how they have made their presence transparent to their customer's customer. What's more their geographic spread and planned buying power to bring costs of shipping down makes this something perfect for the cottage industry of eBay sellers. As a matter of fact if this company takes off look for them to be a perfect buy for eBay as they are already accepting PayPal.
